May 2019

Dear Friends,

We were greatly honoured to receive an award from my home German state of Baden-Württemberg. It was presented for the work Discover

I received this award from Frau Schwarz, the Green Party representative acting on behalf of the federal government in Baden-Württemberg.

does running intensive training seminars in natural healthcare in Uganda. Although the picture shows me receiving the award, the honour belongs to Rehema Namyalo, Evelyne Nakamatte and Andrew Kyambadde who organise and run these seminars so successfully.

We have just received a grant from the Erbacher Stiftung to support the remarkable work of our partner Eric Kihuluka and his “Mikwano” team (Mikwano means friendship) in Uganda. There they are promoting hygiene and nutrition, and are establishing school gardens in the 220 schools in Kaliro District. Their central demonstration farm and garden is already being developed and proving to be a valuable resource for farmers and schools in the entire district.

We are very encouraged!

We have just posted a report on our web-site which shows how our partners have used the money that our friends and supporters have so generously given so far this year. The report indicates how grateful our partners are and the great results they have achieved. See <https://discover-src.net/en/wp-content/uploads/2019/05/2019-04-May-Interim-report.pdf>

Robert's wife Gevinah and their baby boy

Our partner Robert Bwambale in Maliba, Uganda, has just celebrated the birth of his third child. It was a whopper! 4.5kg. The birth went without a hitch. Robert claims it is because his wife regularly ate the very nutritious leaves of Moringa oleifera! I believe him.

With best wishes,

Keith
